StartMail

Secure email that puts your privacy first.

Our company and mission

We believe that privacy is a fundamental right. StartMail was founded in 2013 by the founders of Startpage, the world's most private search engine. StartMail operates as a separate, independent company under Dutch law. Since then, we have been safeguarding emails with robust encryption and secure data storage. Our service has been chosen by hundreds of thousands of privacy-conscious people across the globe.

Why use a secure email service?

- With over 330 billion emails sent daily, email continues to be an essential part of our lives. But sending email is structurally unsafe. It's like sending a postcard - anyone who helps deliver the post can read your message or make a copy of it.
- A number of "free" email services exist, but they come at a high cost: your privacy. Providers such as Gmail or Yahoo scan, analyze and save details of every single email you send and receive - even after you delete it.

With StartMail you can enjoy secure, ad-free email communication without surveillance
